

WorldLight Releases a New Meta Search Engine - Seek2Day

Seek2Day, a new addition to WorldLight's range of search-related services has been released.

HALMSTAD, SWEDEN - March 27, 2006 - WorldLight (www.worldlight.com), has of today released its new meta search engine Seek2Day, which is available at(www.seek2day.com).

Seek2Day is the newest addition to WorldLight's range of search-related services and their continued growth in the search-engine industry.

The service has been in beta mode during some time and has now been fine-tuned to meet the demands of today's Internet users.

The main goal of Seek2Day is to offer a very advanced but simple-to-use search engine to end users. With focus on the simplicity of the site and the basic search features we believe that this is a way of helping people to a better search experience.

When a user performs a search at Seek2Day, the technology gathers results from 17 different major search engines and in a very quick way decides which information is most relevant to the user. The results are then presented in a comprehensive format. More search engines will be implemented in the future and with no paid results included, the results are fast and relevant. Without lowering the quality of the search results in any way, contextual ads from Entireweb SpeedyAds will be the only ad-source on the search engine.

About WorldLight.com AB

WorldLight is a fast growing search software provider. The technology improves continuously, making its services Entireweb.com and WindSeek.com popular search engines among Web users. In November of 2001, WorldLight bought the majority of the contents in Euroseek AB when they had to leave in due to financial problems. Along with the deal, WorldLight became the owner of an impressive search technology and has continued to develop this technology. Headquartered in Halmstad, Sweden, WorldLight is a fully Swedish-owned and operating company.
